[User Name].The proposed research consists of the synthesis of oligodeoxynucleotide analogues containing dioxo bridge and the evaluation of their hybridization efficiency with complementary DNA and single-stranded DNA. The dioxo bridge, inserted between the single-strand and the double-strand at a predetermined base position, will permit the penetration of oligodeoxynucleotide analogues through duplex DNA, which is not possible for oligodeoxynucleotide with the double-strand. The dioxo bridge will thus provide oligodeoxynucleotide analogues with a new ability to discriminate between single-stranded and double-stranded DNA. This new technology will open wide application fields for the use of oligodeoxynucleotides.Q: Get process name and PID in real-time I need to get the process name and PID of all running processes in real-time, but can't seem to figure out how to do it. Normally, I would use the GetProcAddress API, but on my platform it's not present, and the implementation that I can find is for 32-bit apps, so my process is 64-bit. I am writing a library in C++, but I have no control over the implementation of the API, so I'm looking for the safest way to do this. (the API is available from 1cb139a0ed
