If you don't get a message that a suitable program can't be found, then the. I read all the threads and tried all the suggested steps, but, nothing helped. Please can someone help? Thanks for any help Anti-virus is off (have anti-virus as default). I have a Dell Inspiron 1545 with Windows 10. u Can someone help? I am very new to Windows 10. The only program I have downloaded is MAGIX Make3 pro, that is installed and running. .I have a Dell Inspiron 1545 with Windows 10, I have the latest version of MAGIX Make3, I tried uninstalling and reinstalling but it still is running. Can someone explain how to uninstall this program for Windows 10. I know my problem is I have a Dell Inspiron 1545,. A: Some buggy software installs can fail without obvious reason for this error message - it can be because of an explicit error (e.g. file is missing on the disk) or because of a system issue. In this case, go to Task Manager and end the running processes of MAGIX Make3. It seems that one of the libs somehow was loaded into memory and so this process becomes a zombie (i.e. a process you don't see in Task Manager). Then you need to reinstall MAGIX Make3. However, ensure that you keep your previous Windows 10 installed on C:\ drive. It means that you install the new Windows 10 just over it and it will make the previous OS to use (on the same partition). Also don't uninstall Windows 10, just keep it on D:\. By the way, try to download D3DX9.dll, if you get same kind of error for any program using this library - this means you have a buggy version of this dll. BrickAcademy.com ABOUT US Brick Academy's Mission is To Increase the Awareness of STEM Education and Brick Building. There is a problem with our education system, and there are no programs to correct it. The available brick programs are basic brick projects. There is no progression to show the students that they are building something. STEM just becomes another project or game. There is not progression. The students are never able to see or understand that they are building something. We are here to change that. We are here to change the world by teaching STEM and brick building. We are here to change the way that everyone thinks about brick building. We are to become the force that changes the status quo and revolutionizes the concepts of brick building and STEM. We believe that we can do that by fixing the system. By getting our name out there, showing the world that Brick Academy is something great and that there are people who are starting to make a difference. STEM Education is the foundation of STEM Construction. We have to start with STEM Education. We have to teach the building blocks. Then the student can begin to take it to its maximum potential. They can then take that knowledge and learn with the programmable bricks. They can learn how the programmable bricks work and learn how to use it. STEM Education is the foundation, and then we can add on to that the programmable bricks. This is the culmination of all the STEM Education programs. The future is in STEM, education, and brick. equation:  $\log(x + y) = \log(x) + \log(y)$  I know the only solution to the equation is  $x = y$  but I do not know how to prove it. A: The equation  $\log(x+y) = \log(x) + \log(y)$  can be interpreted as a relationship between  $(x,y)$  and  $(x+y, \frac{x+y}{xy})$ . You may look at the general equation:  $\log(a) + \log(b) = \log(ab)$  and apply it by setting  $a=x$ ,  $b=y$ ,  $ab=xy$ . You should find that the unique solution to this is  $x=y$ . A: Let's try to do the problem in 2 steps:

$\log(x+y) = \log(x) + \log(y)$  So by adding  $\log(x) + \log(y)$  both sides to both sides by definition  $\log(x+y) = \log(x) + \log(y) + C$  For some  $C$ . For  $C$  to be  $0$  it means that  $x+y=xy$   $y=x$  and so  $\log$
