Software Summary Frostbite has many more features than many of the games mentioned in our other categories. Unlike other games, Frostbite does not have to be played by a human. Another difference between Frostbite and many other games is the unlimited power of the game. Humans cannot fight an alien, they can only fight man-made things. Some of the other human-made things that can be fought in Frostbite include buildings, floors, vehicles, and well, people. Humans can also use the environment to fight the alien. The environment is not as rich as the things that can be fought in the game, but it can still be used to fight an alien. Frostbite can also fight the alien using turrets or mines. Anything that can be in reality can be used to fight an alien. Features Like many games, Frostbite features two modes. The first mode is the campaign mode. The campaign mode is the main campaign of the game, it is the main story in the game. The other mode is called multiplayer mode. Multiplayer mode, or the multiplayer portion of the game, is the place where players come to fight. Players play on a server and they can use any weapons they want. The servers can allow players to change their weapons quickly so the battle can be like the players want. Another feature is that players can use an environment to fight the alien. The environment is not as rich as the things that can be fought in the game, but it can still be used to fight the alien. Frostbite also features a human-made weapon feature. A weapon can be created by players and it can be used to fight the alien. Any weapon created can be unlocked. Finally, Frostbite comes with an extra feature. The feature is called Battlegrim. Battlegrim can make a map out of the area the players are fighting on. A map can be made by players and it is just like it would be in the real world.
