SetupVPN is available as both a browser extension and a separate service. While the browser extension can be installed on all major browsers, the service can only be used with the Firefox browser. SetupVPN offers the following benefits: VPN vs P2P services are a controversial topic, but if you're looking for a good P2P client, I highly recommend you try out ShareTorrents. Use a VPN to access blocked content when you're on a public Wi-Fi network. Most of the time, VPN services work well on public Wi-Fi networks, but some connections can still be slow or unstable. In that case, a VPN service that's optimized for public Wi-Fi is more beneficial than one that's optimized for wired connections. In case your VPN service doesn't have different locations, you can still try it. It is not much, but it's something. You can try a paid VPN with free account. In case if you need just a little bit of VPN, you may try it. Performance Firefox add-ons can make your browsing experience even better and, more importantly, can help you manage your privacy.
