Coded By: Luscious Clock. [Version 3.2d]Differentiation between dopaminergic and serotonergic nerve terminal populations in the retina with antibodies to tyrosine hydroxylase and serotonin. Fluorescent light-induced elevation of the retina serotonin level on the chicken eye-sheath preparation was accompanied by additional enhancement of dopamine (DA) in the tissue. A double immunofluorescent analysis revealed the presence of both serotonin- and tyrosine hydroxylase-containing nerve fibers of the central and peripheral retina. As was shown with a double preembedding immunogold technique, the main serotonergic structures which are located in the ganglion and inner plexiform layers were not tyrosine hydroxylase-positive. The DA-positive cell bodies were also shown to represent another cell type which can release DA by impulse discharge. Due to light-induced elevation of serotonin level the intensity of DA release in the retinas of both intact chicken and tissue previously exposed to reserpine was shown to increase, but the increased DA level persisted longer in the reserpinized than in intact chickens." What's new in Aztech Forgotten Gods:

is a virtual reality (VR) experience originally developed by Scalable Studios based on the classic horror story "Contagion", adapted by Robb Waters. On December 3, 2011, the Oculus Team member, Oculus Software chief scientist, Jason Paul, mentioned on the Destructoid and Polygon forums that the same experiment would be receiving a remake, and that Scott Keagle would be in charge of the remake. The new version, dubbed "Contagion VR", features different scenarios and different characters.

Gameplay The reality is simulated in 2.5d, allowing the player to walk and turn around freely. You can walk down halls, up stairs, through doors, and move from one room to the next. As you leave a room though, the walls, doors, and ceilings automatically close, and you won't be able to re-enter unless the area is open again. This makes the game feel very tense, since you need to constantly be vigilant to not get locked out. Contagion is played in an online multiplayer mode where users can challenge each other in a cooperative, competitive, or free-for-all mode. Multiplayer modes involve a "Breakthrough Phase" where only one player is allowed in the room and then everyone else is locked out, followed by a "Susceptible Phase", where everyone is allowed in and the rooms are all open to the hallway and stairs again. This causes cross contamination when users move from one room to the next, which creates a challenge where both the virus and the player must be mindful.

Plot The game begins with the discovery of a zombie named "C3". When he starts running, his head pops off and he dies. The challenge is more than surviving the encounter, as the zombie has infected himself. As he keeps running around, the Infected begin to creep closer and closer to the player until he is near enough to touch them. The infected are aware of the player and will attempt to chase, grab and bite them. Each infected appears as a unique character with its own set of abilities and appearance. The infection is a timeline-based story following the spread of the virus through a series of challenging scenarios. The player must use their knowledge of survival to elude the zombies while trying to work out how to get to the next section of the story. There are 5 different scenarios and each one has a different objective. The player must make it through all 5 scenarios while figuring out what is going on and trying to survive.
