Because the serial number is an important part of our licensing process, please note that Autodesk does not assign serial numbers directly to Autodesk products. Autodesk products always contain a unique Autodesk-assigned serial number. Autodesk products come with an Autodesk serial number, which must be entered by a registered Autodesk user. This number is used to identify your product. Your product license expires when you first register your products and the serial number is no longer valid. Autodesk products contain a unique serial number within their setup files. This number is very important, since it is used to verify your product's authenticity and to enforce the license rights that are part of the Autodesk product. It is illegal to share or distribute this serial number. Each Autodesk product includes the use of a unique product-specific serial number (Product Serial Number) that is required to be entered by a registered user when installing the software. The product-specific serial number is a unique number specific to an Autodesk product that is entered by a registered user at the time of installation. This is the most secure serial number for the product and it can be used to verify and enforce the license rights that are associated with Autodesk products. It is illegal to share or distribute a product-specific serial number. The Autodesk products Serial Number must be the same as the Number returned from the installation XML file. No products Serial Number can be same as the Product number as this is used for Product-specific license activation. To migrate your serial number from one product to another, you can use the Autodesk Keygen that will do the same.
