mercedes-benz is now an american company. not only did we successfully build, market and sell our vehicles in the united states, but we have been committed to being an american company for over 100 years. our founding fathers recognized the importance of manufacturing and innovation and their vision has shaped our company. today, our products and technology help make our neighbors' lives more convenient and enrich their experiences. the mercedes-benz brand remains the most trusted name in the industry, and we remain committed to growing our business as a true american company. porsche cars are german, and audi cars are german, and bmw cars are german, and mercedes cars are german. you know, this means that we are german. no matter where we are in the world, we will always be german. hi purchased an 1998 mercedes clk320 and within 10 miles the car suddenly died. after a couple tows and the inability of mercedes licensed mechanics to diagnose mainly due to the ecu not spitting codes i got it home determined it to be a faulty ecu. opened it up and sure enough there was actually burn marks on the case. i sent the unit off and had to wait a month to receive the unit. plugged it in and the car run excellent. there were 3 issues abs esp lights remained on, car sometime wouldnt shift to 5th gear and said i had a faulty brake or tail light one was a little dimmer. three weeks later the car wouldnt start and had all the ecu symptoms of fan on high, key turned, all lights and equipment operated, when jumped starter turrrn and fuel pump operated. i purchase two donor ecus and took immobilizer the symptoms are: there is plenty of voltage from battery if i turn ignition quick there will be a click and almost feel like it is beginning to engage starter. turned slowly there is no sound. all lights etc work. computer links to scanner but throws no codes. fan is back to normal. k40 and all fuses appear good. new brake switch installed. we tried a number of reset procedures with no results. so heres a few thoughts.
