It is actually a company named after (or is that in?) one of the works of Shakespeare. So it's a company started by two guitar players, who were all about the musical side of things. Originality isn't what doesn't matter, it's the things that you can do that make life easier. And that's what Adobe has done since day one. Adobe has always had a free web viewer. You see a photo you like, and you want to see it on your computer, you can do that. There's been no fee. But it wasn't until Photoshop was around that you could actually take the photo, and make it into art. And it was Photoshop that let you make the art. And it was Photoshop that let you show that art to the world. So Adobe was never about just creating software. They were about creating tools for the rest of us. 933d7f57e6
